SOCIETY OF MESSENIAN ARCHAEOLOGICAL STUDIES

PHOTO EXHIBITION

The exhibition refers to the newly discovered great sanctuary of goddess Isis and god Serapis at the archaeological site of the Ancient Messene, which has partially come to light immediately south of the Theatre, exactly where Pausanias saw it in the 2nd century AD. It will include various representations both of the architectural complex and the most important finds (mostly sculpture) related to the worship of the sacred couple of Egypt. The colossal complex of buildings consists of underground vaulted stoas that surround the temenos, as well as a complex of also vaulted underground rooms of impressive dimensions, 6.50 meters deep, along the southern side of the temenos.

ASIA MINOR CULTURE MUSEUM

WORKSHOP OF SOURCE FUNDING

1) Family narrations through generations.

The program consists of cooperative activities such as family narrations between different age groups. Children and adults will exchange their experiences from the Asia Minor Culture Museum and their personal family history. It must be noted that this field of interest is not separated from the local community and its history.

2) Reframing your family history with the help of technology.

For this activity, grandparents, still living, will narrate their own autobiographic stories. The material of these narratives will be recorded by younger participants and will be used in the educational activities and publications of the Museum and the Asia Minor Association of Aigaleo. These recorded experiences will also be available online!

HELLENIC SOCIETY FOR THE STUDY OF ANCIENT EGYPT / BRAU4

TALK BY MR. THEODOROS CONSTAS

Bridging the gap between individuals with visual impairment in Museums and Archaeological/Cultural Sites

An interactive talk about the personal experience of Mr. Theodoros Conostas who is now officially the first guide for blind individuals. Two elements characterize his long and hard work.

The first element refers to the condition of parity. The second element has to do with the integration and inclusion of the visually impaired to the design of accessibility.

As a participant in this route from the beginning until the end, Mr. Conostas feels great satisfaction because on the one hand he won his personal bet to overcome his disability and step forward in new things which offer him joy and inspiration, and on the other hand because with his collaborators laid the foundation for people with visual impairment to be able to participate unobstructed in the country's cultural affairs either as receivers or -why not?- as professionals.
